ADDE KENNEDY, appearing in "Fair and Warmer," at the Eltinge Theatre, is rehearsing in a comedy by Philip Bartholomae called "All Night Long," which the Measur, shuber, are soon to produce. She will be featured in the play, Miss Kennedy was largely responsible for the success of "Twin Sade." At the time the west mis that production she was inder a struct to William A. Brady and Philip Barthelemae and her contract with them still exists. The Fineris interests, which first produced "Twin Beds," borrowed her, and when Selwan & Co. took over the play she went along with it. Selwyn & Co. next staged "Fair and Warmportant rote. Now Mr. Bartholomse on evidently decided that he needs no 'property and has recalled Miss remains. Whether she will be with 'All Night Long' or 'Fair and warme, near example remains to be

Dear Cousin Eleanor: I have seen the Kiddie Klub in The Evening World which daddy brings home every night, and I think it is sreat. Perhaps you think it funny that I should write to you telling you I like it so much when I have not yet sent in any coupons. I already have seven, but I have my little cousin, May Flynn, living with me or awhile, and we want to join ogether. We only wish the Kiddie logether. We only wish the Kiddle Kiub with the delightful stories were sublished every night. I am not a good drawer, but I am going to try in the May contest and will write
